Reds Reject U. S. Move To Break Peace Parley Deadlock

Gen. Marshall Awarded Nobel Peace Prize

Oslo, Norway, (AP)—The Nobel Peace Prize for 1953 was awarded last night to Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. soldier-statesman who gave his name to the Marshall Plan.

At the same time the prize for 1952, previously omitted, was awarded to Dr. Albert Schweitzer, a missionary-philosopher.

The Norwegian Nobel Institute, a five-member board, announced the selections. In keeping with tradition, it gave no explanations.

Marshall, 72, was convalescing from a flu attack at his winter home in Pinehurst, N. C., when he got the news. "This award is a great distinction and honor for which I am deeply grateful," he said.

At the White House President Eisenhower was described as delighted over the new honor for his wartime boss.

Instrumental in setting up a 17 billion dollar aid program for the war-shattered economy of Europe, Marshall is to receive a prize of 175,292 Swedish kronor ($33,840) from the funds set up under the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite.

In Washington, tax officials said the prize would be exempt from U. S. income taxes under a ruling made in 1940.

Schweitzer, 78, is to get 171,570 kronor ($33,200). Fluctuations in the funds' earnings account for the difference.

Nobel's will specified that the peace prize should go to the candidate "who has worked the most or best for promoting brotherhood among people, and for the abolition or reduction of the standing armies, and for the establishment and spread of peace congresses."

Marshall won world renown as the U. S. chief of staff in World War Two. He was called from retirement three times in the following five years.

After the war, Marshall retired to the peace and quiet of his home at Leesburg, Va.

Two years later President Truman sent him to China on a fruitless mission to end the Chinese Civil War, a war the Communists eventually won.

Then he was named secretary of state. In this capacity he represented the United States at the first of the Four-Power foreign ministers' meetings aimed at establishing an East-West peace.

It was in this period that the government launched the giant foreign aid program that became known as the Marshall Plan. Russia was eligible for aid as a wartime ally, but lacked away. The plan became an outstanding target of the Communists in the cold war.

Marshall resigned as secretary of state in January, 1949. President Truman called him from retirement again in September, 1950, during the Korean War, to succeed Louis A. Johnson as secretary of defense. He stepped out a year later, saying he did so "for highly personal reasons." His deputy and close friend, Robert A. Lovett, succeeded him.

Woman Dies In Mate's Arms At Divorce Hearing

Bearne, Tex. (AP)—A 54-year-old Bearne woman died of a heart attack in the arms of her estranged husband yesterday as the two waited in court here for a hearing in their divorce suit.

Mrs. Ida B. Perner, was sitting in the back row of the courtroom and her husband, Charles Perner, to whom she had been married seven years, was sitting two rows ahead of her waiting for the judge to call their case.

When Mrs. Perner was stricken, her husband rushed to her aid.

The sobbing husband attempted to revive her. A physician arrived and pronounced her dead.

Berlin (AP)—Fourteen German amateur bicycle racers crashed in a mass collision last night when the electric lights failed at Berlin's Sport Palast. The amateurs were in a curtain-raiser event for the opening of the international six-day bicycle race here.

Angered Mayor Finally Gets Milk Strike Negotiators To City Hall For Peace Talks

New York, (AP)—Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri finally got milk strike negotiators to City Hall yesterday, threatening to lock them in until they settle a five-day walkout.

He did not carry out the threat, however. But nevertheless there was no hope of an early settlement.

The strike has cut off milk supplies to 12 million people in New York and northern New Jersey and the mayor angrily told reporters in early afternoon:

"There have been too many delays and I am not tolerating further delays."

Impellitteri gave every indication of being serious about the "lockup," although a spokesman for his office admitted he had no legal right to lock in the negotiators for the AFL teamsters and 200 struck milk firms.

The mayor's ire was aroused after the union ignored his summons to City Hall yesterday morning. Company negotiators alone showed up. Both sides have been stalling off Impellitteri since Wednesday in his request for city-supervised peace talks.

Farm Cost-Price Squeeze Tightens Another Notch, Extending Two-Year Trend

Washington, (AP)—Prices of farm products dropped 234 per cent between mid-September and mid-October, tightening still further what the Agriculture Department calls the "cost-price squeeze" on the nation's farmers.

It was the largest monthly decline reported by the department since the Eisenhower administration took office last January. It was also the largest since last December when, in the fading days of the Truman administration they declined 2.89 per cent from the mid-November level. The general trend of farm prices has been downward for the past two years.

Prices received by farmers in mid-October, 1953, the department said, were down about 11.5 per cent from a year ago and about 20 per cent from the record high reached in February, 1951.

Prices paid by farmers for goods and services, on the other hand, were down only about 3 per cent from a one-third of one percent in the last month. That's where the squeeze comes in.

Two Indicted For Kidnaping

Kansas City, (AP)—A federal jury yesterday indicted Carl Austin Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Heady for the kidnaping of little Bobby Greenleaf who was slain by his abductors last Sept. 28.

The federal kidnaping law makes possible a death penalty for Hall, a 34-year-old ex-convict who shot the 6-year-old boy to death, and for his accomplice, a 41-year-old divorcee, who duped the nuns of Bobby's private school into releasing him.

The jury had heard four days of testimony detailing the story of the kidnap, the six days of negotiation by Hall with the wealthy Robert C. Greenleaf family, payment of a $600,000 ransom, and the arrest of Hall and Mrs. Heady on Oct. 6, nine days after they had buried the child in a flower garden behind Mrs. Heady's bungalow in St. Joseph, Mo.

George Would Bar Hike In Pension Tax

Washington, (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said yesterday congress should strike out the billion-dollar increase in social security taxes now scheduled to cost most U. S. taxpayers sums ranging up to $18 a year starting next Jan. 1.

The Georgia senator, senior Democrat on the tax-handling Senate Finance Committee, said it would be "less than fair" to low-income workers to let the tax boost go through while other tax rates go down.

In this connection, George pointed out that many workers don't earn enough to be liable for income taxes, but most wage and salary earners have to pay social security taxes to finance the federal retirement and death benefit program. The tax is withheld from their paychecks.

Under present law, Jan. 1 is the target date for a 10 per cent drop in individual income taxes and for the expiration of the excess profits tax on business.

It is also the date when social security taxes are scheduled to increase from the present rate of 1 1/2 to 2 per cent each on employees and employers.

Accepts Resignation

Washington, (AP)—In a letter bordering on the curt, President Eisenhower yesterday accepted the resignation of William D. Mitchell as administrator of the Small Business Administration.

Communists Still Insist On Neutrals

By Sam Summerlin

Panmunjom, Saturday (AP)—

The Communists today for the second time turned down U. S. Ambassador Arthur Dean's plea to break the deadlock over seating neutral nations at the Korean peace conference.

The Reds said Dean's proposal to take up immediately and before anything else the matter of time and place for the conference was "a scheme or pretext to avoid discussion of composition."

The Communists want to settle the composition of the conference—the participation of neutral nations—before discussing time and place.

The negotiators agreed, despite the continuing deadlock, to meet again on Monday for a seventh session.

Dean, special envoy of Secretary of State Dulles, told newsmen after the meeting he was "still optimistic" and that "I think they (Communists) still believe it is essential to hold a political peace conference."

North Korean foreign counselor Ki Sok Bok opened today's meeting by asking Dean if he had any comment on the Communist demand for seating neutrals—particularly Asian neutrals—at the top meeting he settled first in these preliminary talks.

Dean replied by urging again that the time and place be agreed upon first. He promised the Reds that he would then talk over composition "in a constructive spirit and with entire reasonableness."

He promised what he called a "flexible or unnumbered agenda" whereby "failure to reach an agreement immediately on a first item does not preclude moving on without prejudice to another item or items on which agreement can perhaps be reached."

"We then return to the earlier item to see once more if agreement cannot be reached in the circumstances."

Dean told the Reds that agreement on his "flexible method of approach would be a concrete step forward." He stressed that the "U. N. has already gone far to meet your views."

"I would like to get your views," Dean said.

The North Korean delegate quickly denounced Dean's plan and declared it "absolutely unacceptable."

The Communists said Dean's approach "is but a slight-of-hand of yours to continue your opposition to discussing and settling first the question of composition of the political conference. Our side firmly will not agree."

Among the nations the Reds would invite to the conference is Russia.

Dean told newsmen "it is painfully clear to us that the U.S.S.R. is not neutral."

Grid Coach Hurt

Dean Plotted To Kill Himself Rather Than Reveal U. S. Secrets Under Torture By Reds

By Yates McDaniel

Washington, (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, a prisoner of war in Korea for more than three years, disclosed yesterday that he once planned to commit suicide to prevent his Red captors from torturing him to a point where he might betray his country.

The plan failed—which is one reason why Dean was able to tell the story at a luncheon in his honor at the National Press Club yesterday.

After days of cruel questioning by North Korean Communists, in which he refused to reveal American military secrets, the general was told that he would be subjected to real physical torture within 24 hours.

The 864 question, he told the newsmen, was: "What are the U. S. plans for the defense of Japan?" Dean explained that he knew these plans and that he decided the safest thing he could do to protect the security of his country was to take his own life. He said he was afraid he might "squeal" under the agonies of torture.

That night, the white-haired general related, he waited until the guard dozed off and got hold of the burp gun with which he was armed.

He said his plan was to fire the burst through the window to arouse his chief interrogators, shoot them down when they rushed through the door and then turn the gun on himself.

But the gun jammed. He was overpowered as he wrestled with the mechanism.

For some reason, Dean went on dryly, his desperate action won him a reprieve. The grilling was halted, and for the first time a doctor was produced to treat him for dysentery and painful injuries he had received earlier in his captivity.

He said the Communists told him he would be tried for "armed insurrection" as a result of the gun incident. But they never got around to holding a trial, he added with a laugh.

Old Car To Be Sold At Profit

Washington, (AP)—The government promptly reported yesterday that it is about ready to close one of its most financially successful deals in history. It's about to sell—for $3,500—a 1904 Cadillac it bought 20 years ago for $100.

The antique car has been up for sale for a month, with sealed bids being accepted. Mrs. Robert L. Slaughter of Fort Worth apparently has made the highest offer, and her bid will be accepted unless some higher one has been delayed in the mails.

Above Normal Temperatures Likely In East

Washington, (AP)—The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for November calls for temperatures to average above normal over the eastern third of the nation, below normal over the western third, and about normal over central sections.

The bureau said: "Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over most of the country east of the Continental Divide except in the South Atlantic States where near normal amounts are indicated. West of the Continental Divide about normal precipitation is predicted except for subnormal amounts in the Pacific Northwest."

Mr. X Not Warren

New York, (AP)—Mayoral candidate Robert F. Wagner Jr. said yesterday that his now famous "Mr. X," a national figure who is supposed to have urged a parole for labor extortionist Joseph S. P. Pay is not Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Asians Shocked But Neutral

United Nations, N. Y. (AP)—Some Asian and Arab delegates took a neutral hands-off stand yesterday on United States charges that Reds in Korea committed atrocities against American and other allied captives. They also expressed fear the charges might jeopardize the Korean peace conference.

A British spokesman expressed horror over the reported atrocities and said his delegation would consult as early as possible with the United States on tactics for debate on them in the U. N. Assembly. Britain is expected to back the American demand for a hearing but the British were not consulted before the U. S. acted here.

The Asian and Arab delegates who talked about the atrocity charges would not permit identification. They expressed their horror also at the evidence but made it clear they would sit on the fence when the case comes up in the Political Committee for action.

Swan Linked To Spy Ring

New York, (AP)—Atom spy Harry Gold was quoted by Senate probes yesterday as linking an ousted American employee of the United Nations to a Russian spy ring of a decade ago.

The former $10,450 a year U. N. employee is Alexander Sveshensky, 44, a target of spy hunters ever since the U. S. State Department made an adverse report on him in 1950. He uses the name, Shura Swan, at times.

Robert Morris, counsel for the Senate internal security subcommittee, quoted Gold as saying in a sworn statement:

"I heard of Shura Swan from a man called Abraham Brothman. Brothman was one of my sources of information for the Soviet Espionage organization, of which I was a courier. I met Brothman in September, 1941."

"Brothman said it was Shura Swan who had introduced him to Soviet espionage work."

Eisenhower Cites Cardinal's Arrest To Stress Red Intent

Washington, (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday cited the arrest of Cardinal Wyszynski in Poland as reason to doubt the Communists would "honor agreements which might be reached to reduce world tensions."

In a letter to Rep. Zablocki (D-Wis.), the President said the arrest and internment of the Polish primate is "profoundly discouraging to those of us who look for signs of Communist willingness to respect basic human rights of freedom of thought and conscience."

He declared further: "Without evidence of such willingness, it is difficult to believe that the Communist governments intend to honor agreements which might be reached to reduce world

Anti-Reds Kick, Scream, Toss Chairs

By Forrest Edwards

Panmunjom, Saturday (AP)—

Kicking, screaming, cursing anti-Red North Korean prisoners faced Communist persuaders in the Korean neutral zone today — as they had promised to do—and most of them chose emphatically not to return to their Red-ruled homeland.

An Indian custodial officer said that of 250 prisoners interviewed in less than three hours, only about eight asked to go back to North Korea.

Indian guards had to restrain some of the violent prisoners—the first North Koreans to attend "explanation" sessions—from attacking Communist interviewers.

The guards also had to drag some of the POWs into the explanation booths.

The guards carried clubs but didn't use them.

The Indian custodial force has refused to use force in bringing prisoners to the interviews, but the term "force" in that case was generally believed to mean gunfire.

The North Koreans had agreed last week to listen to Red explainers, but they didn't agree to listen peacefully.

The POWs apparently had planned their actions in advance.

They entered the explanation area without much resistance but as soon as they saw Communist officers they burst forth with violence.

They shouted:

"You running dogs of Communism!"

"We will kill Kim Il Sung!"

Kim is Red dictator of North Korea.

"You Chinese foreign gooks!"

An Indian officer said guard troops expected "a little violence" but not "so much hostility at the explanations."

One POW threw a chair at three North Korean explainers and hit two of them on their heads. An Indian observer ordered the POW to leave.

The Indian guard was double the number used two weeks ago when anti-Communist Chinese prisoners were interviewed by the Reds.

Meanwhile, word leaked out of the neutral zone stockpiles that another of the little group of Americans who balked at going home now is wavering in that direction — although no move has been made yet by the Allies to question any of these men.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India said one of 22 Americans held in the neutral zone has asked him if relatives could come to Korea and try to persuade the men to return.

The chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission said he told the Americans there was nothing in the Korean armistice rules to prevent it.

Guest preacher will be Rev. David Dunn, D.D., professor of church history at Lancaster Theological Seminary. Dr. Dunn is well known throughout the E&R Church as a fine pulpit orator. Rev. Frank H. Blatt, pastor, said yesterday. Before going to Lancaster he was minister of the largest E&R Church in Harrisburg.

Mrs. Lucy Quig, organist and choir director, has selected as her prelude "Hear My Prayer" by Mendelssohn and as a postlude, "Chorus" by Bach.

Junior Choir, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, will sing "There's a Friend For Little Children," by Holier. Soloist will be Mrs. Alberta Yutz, soprano, who will sing "Ave Maria" by Millard.

Flowers will be placed by the Faithful Workers Class and the Sunday School will provide chancel flowers. Ushers will be Ernest Anglemeyer, Emmett Fabel, Elmer Goucher and Charles Miller.

Members and friends of the church will unite with other community churches for the Reformation Service in East Stroudsburg Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m.

Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church started in 1881 when a group of local citizens obtained permission to worship in the Court-house. A year later the congregation formed and in August, 1883, Rev. George Kerschner came here as pastor and the cornerstone was laid at the church on N. Eighth St.

Rev. Kerschner remained here three years when Rev. R. N. Kaplan succeeded him. Rev. S. W. Mitman followed and two years later Charles Weaver was named supply pastor.

In 1893 Rev. H. H. W. Hilschman, D.D., became pastor. As the years progressed other ministers occupied the manse. In 1916 Dr. E. W. Kriebel succeeded Dr. Charles E. Roth as pastor and stayed here two years. Rev. Blatt became pastor in May, 1919, and three years later an organ was purchased and a small addition completed and dedicated virtually free of debt.

Entire indebtedness of the church, parsonage and Sunday School room was reached in 1927. Renovations on the auditorium began the following year and rededication services were held in 1931.

Services will continue each Sunday of the month with special speakers listed for both matins and vespers.

Devotional Month Set

November, always a month of spiritual rallying and increased loyalty in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church, this year has been named by its official board as the month of Christian devotion.

The first Sunday of the month—Nov. 1—Carl T. Secor, the superintendents and teachers associated with him, are working for an attendance of 600 in the church school. In the morning worship, the first "Covenant Communion" service will be held. To this service, by a special visitation that required 118 people to complete throughout the whole charge, the entire membership has been urged to receive the sacraments and to pledge special loyalty and cooperation during the entire month.

The sacrament of Holy Communion will give occasion for the election on the part of all members of their purpose of special dedication to the work of Christ and His church throughout November. In this service the Church Choir, Chapel Choir and Altar Choir will sing.

In the evening service, the county-wide Reformation Sunday Service will be held in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m.

The nursery room dedication, which was planned for last Sunday but postponed, will be held during the worship period of the Sunday school.

Bible Lesson Topic Given

The arresting subject of the Bible Lesson to be read in all Christian Science churches Sunday is "Everlasting Punishment."

Among the many Scriptural passages in the lesson-sermon is this well known verse from the apostle Paul's Epistle to the Galatians (6:7): "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

The Golden Text is from the General Epistle of James (4:8): "Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded."

LOOK WHERE I AM !

Kittens turn up in the oddest places. It's no wonder—for a kitten will try anything once. And sooner or later curiosity kills many a cat!

Some people have a penchant for trying anything once. Occasionally it leads them to the pinnacles of success. More often it leaves them in the depths of despair.

Neither curiosity nor daring is the highroad to happiness. Life's richest rewards are for those who choose paths tried and true . . . who seek goals which the greatest were bold to attain.

No surer paths have ever been trod than the "paths of righteousness" of which the Psalmist spoke. No higher goals were ever achieved than those Jesus Christ made his own.

The Church points the highroad to happiness for men who are willing to try Christ's Way . . . not once . . . BUT ALWAYS!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

You're In Politics

By G. L. Smrz, General Manager, Line Material Co.
Do you consider local elections important?
The answer to this question may surprise you—namely, there is no such thing as a "local" election. Government has so completely permeated our life that every election, be it community, county, state or national, is part of the big picture we call "government."

The election of a president occurs every four years—but the election of a township supervisor is part of the process. The election of a U.S. Senator is part and parcel of the process of electing a sheriff or a county commissioner. Politics in America is a grass-roots proposition, and the government at the local level determines to a great extent, the kind of government you have in the state capital and in Washington.

That's why politics at home is so very important. Work for good government in your own community and you are working for good national government. Your precinct committeeman may not seem like a very important person politically, but he and thousands of others like him elect mayors, governors, presidents.

These men are the backbone of the political parties they represent. They gather votes and without votes, no one can win office. Sometimes a national organization forgets this political truth, and it usually spells defeat. Every election is won or lost in the wards and precincts of America.

Now, what does this mean to you? You say you aren't in politics? But you are! You want good government, you want good candidates, perhaps you would like to run for office yourself someday. Why not? It's simple to begin your political "career." Merely vote at every election. The next step is to get others to register and vote; then get others to study candidates and issues carefully, so that they vote intelligently. That kind of "politicizing" you can do in your own home, but it can have amazing results if enough people like you do the same thing in every neighborhood.

Election Day is Tuesday, November 3. It's an important election. Be sure to vote!

Hallowe'en Fun

At Hallowe'en, otherwise good little boys and girls sometimes get off their usually angelic beam and turn to malicious mischief. To them, too, police have issued a warning to behave themselves or face serious consequences.

In recent years Hallowe'en has turned more from the "trick" to the "treat." It is a night when neighbors expect a slight amount of innocent extortion to be paid off in candy, cookies or fruits. Organized parades, parties and contests have helped to bring to a minimum the mischief children might be tempted into if they were otherwise unoccupied.

It is not to these youngsters that the police warning is directed. It is to the ones who deliberately plot damage to property, and simply use Hallowe'en night as a cover for their malicious pranks. Not only will this group be dealt with harshly, but police promise to crack down on parents, too, and make them responsible for their children's actions.

We may as well face the fact that Hallowe'en night is not the time when children are at their best. But fun is fun, and damage to the properties of others is quite another thing. The most practical restraint is vigilance by the police and householders, along with a parental promise to smack any wayward youngsters where it will do the most good.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Three hundred cattlemen stormed Washington this week in cowboy hats and boots. The city looked full of Gary Coopers, Gabby Hayeses and Alan Ladis. There were moments when we thought we were watching the movie "High Noon." We kept wondering whether they'd get Ezra ("Ponyboy") Benson and Ike ("Two Gun") Eisenhower as they rode in from the water tower. But all ended peacefully, although there was a threat of serious trouble when the embattled cattlemen ordered a steak in an Eastern restaurant and discovered what happened to meat prices between the ranch and the restaurant check.

All week along the Potomac you could hear the old cattle country melodies, "Deep in the Sierras of Texas," "Homicidal on the Range," "Bury Me on the Lone Prairie" and "Get Along, Little Benson, Get Along." The cattlemen rode out of the West to express their demands for a better beef. Said they were having rugged going. This was news to city folks who had gained the idea from buying meat in butcher shops that there must be big game all along the line, even the cowboy crooners getting a good cut. But the cattlemen say they get so little that they are practically doing a rope trick in which they lasso themselves. Most people think of cattle raisers as b.g. prosperous gents in ten-gallon hats and twelve-passenger station wagons. They insist they may have to swap the big hat for a small model and travel by car pool.

President Eisenhower was surprised by the visit. He thought he had settled things when he saw Gene Autry. "What's all the commotion?" asked Ike. "The cattlemen are here," said his secretary. "This is it," declared Ike. "I spend forty-five years as an Army man, an invasion commander, a college president and a President of the U. S. . . and I wind up as a character pursued in a WESTERN!" The President bade his secretary to tell them he couldn't play golf with them. "They are not here to play golf," said Mr. Hagerty. "Then why are they swinging all those clubs and pawing up the turf? They seem to be trying to put a back-spin on that ball," said Ike. "That ain't no ball. That's Ezra Benson," explained the secretary. Well, is added a colorful chapter to "Life on the Potomac," and it had an educational side, since it showed Americans that meat doesn't originate in a chain store but that cattlemen have as much trouble eating as the rest of us. Too many people had assumed that the pleas from the cattle lands were "strictly for the HERDS" as they continued to leave the restaurant singing "Mister, You Cut the Roast Beef Too Thin." We hear Secretary Benson is now suffering from insomnia. And he's afraid to count sheep because he knows how beef raisers feel about those animals.

Racing addicts who had followed the Godfrey-LaRosa case are kicking themselves if they didn't play that Jamaica race won at $165 by Blast O'Roses, with Rosey Field second at $27, Singing Sue third and—believe it or not—Afternoon Tea fourth. . . (Should have been called the Godfrey handcap.) . . . Frank Stevens is coming along okay at New York Hospital. . . Bertrand Russell says he has found no evidence that there is a God. . . The evidence that there is a Bertrand Russell, while nowhere near as convincing, evidently absorbs his entire interest. . . Fancy a world in which man could put his faith and hopes only in the 81-year-old British philosopher. . . General Bill Dean, long in Communist prison camps, looks more like an American eagle than the eagle does. . . Fred Christian, writing in "Compact," reveals that Julius LaRosa once stood in line for hours before a Broadway theater to get an autograph from Frankie Sinatra. . . He also took part in several amateur night talent shows and lost. . . His Dad, an Italian immigrant, worked for years as a radio and TV repairman, and used to wonder if the report that some avarice singers got as much as $100 a week were true. . . A man who had $1,197 in cash on him and bank books showing deposits of ten grand was caught sneaking into the subway without depositing any money. . . It must be a big thrill at that, now that the fare is so high. . . President Eisenhower has done an oil painting of Abraham Lincoln and the comment, "You must have gripped your brush too tightly and looked up," is not justified. . . Ike, being a golfer, sympathizes with a man who could not tell a "lie."

Yugoslav-Italian Feuding Costs Each U. S. Carrier

Washington — The furious Yugoslav-Italian feuding over Trieste is costing both of them a much-sought military prize from the United States.

Both countries wanted an aircraft carrier, but that's out now. Previously, American authorities were favorably inclined to giving these two Western powers a small carrier each. Several submarines had been allocated to Italy and are being refurbished preparatory to being transferred. But with the two countries now at one another's throats over Trieste, their hopes for carriers have gone glimmering.

This was frankly admitted by Assistant Defense Secretary Frank Nash during a private talk to a group of NATO officials. Nash, in charge of Pentagon foreign relations, has just returned from an extended tour of Europe.

"In considering requests for American arms," he said, "we have to look at all factors, including political. There are times when we grant or reject items for political reasons as well as military. In the case of aircraft carriers, both military and political reasons were involved."

Nash also disclosed that Portugal had asked for a carrier, and had been turned down for still another reason.

"Aircraft carriers are very expensive pieces of equipment," he declared. "Their maintenance and upkeep is very heavy, and this was a case where the entire defense budget of the country couldn't support a carrier for a year without dropping the rest of its military establishment. So we had to be disagreeable and frankly tell them, 'We're sorry, but we can't give you a carrier.'"

Note: The Defense Department will soon announce that the U. S. has shipped abroad 5,000 planes since the start of the foreign military aid program in 1949.

Added Pay-Off. The giant defense stockpiling program has produced an unexpected dividend. This is the break-up of the price-kiting international cartel on mercury.

The unusual inside story is related in detail in a report to the Senate Interior Affairs Committee by Samuel H. Williston, vice-president of Cordero Mining Company, Nev., and former top official of the Defense Minerals Administration.

Following are the highlights of the revealing tale of international economic intrigue as told by Williston:

"Under the Marshall and ECA Plans, the United States purchased Italian mercury with exchange lira and put the mercury in the government stockpile. In doing that, the U. S. encouraged the Italians to appreciably increase their productive capacity so that at present the Italian mercury industry is probably the largest potential producer in the world.

"There are interesting reports in this connection. These are to the effect that the Italians were unwilling to share their added income from mercury with their Spanish partners in an international mercury cartel, with the result that the cartel broke up because of this split. It was reformed sub rosa after large shipments of mercury were made by the Spaniards to Iron Curtain countries. These sales are reported to have amounted to 50,000 flasks, but whether the cartel was actually reorganized is of relatively little importance. Because the principal Italian and Spanish producers are still quoting prices and are still pretty well dividing up the world mercury markets."

Note: Intelligence authorities estimate that Russia is the third gold-producing country in the world, with an output of 2,000,000,000 fine ounces annually. South America is first with 12,000,000 ounces and Canada second with 5,000,000. Virtually all of Russia's gold is mined by an estimated 500,000 slave laborers in grim camps in the Arctic Circle. Very few prisoners escape because of the lack of physical endurance and equipment to survive the vast frozen wastes.

Jolting Report—A top Civil Defense official had an unimpressive experience in Baltimore, only 50 miles from Washington.

The official decided to make a personal first-hand check of what the people of Baltimore know about civil defense in their home town, which is rated as a major atomic target. So he sauntered up and down a main street and asked 100 persons two questions: "Does Baltimore have civil defense shelters?" and "Do you know where a shelter is located?"

On the first question, 76 stated they knew or believed that Baltimore has defense shelters. But one of the 100 interrogated, only knew the location of shelters.

Baltimore is credited with having one of the best civil defense systems, including shelter facilities, on the East Coast.

Said the official sadly in relating his experience to a Pentagon conference, "Something is terribly wrong somewhere, and it could pay off tragically in the event of an enemy attack."

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Unwillingness Of Our People To Accept Truths Degenerates Life Of Our Era

One of the inevitable effects of the existence of the devastating hydrogen bomb is that thoughtful human beings are wondering about the world they live in and its future. When the atom bomb appeared our consciousness, we realized that we had reached an age of destructiveness that was, for the moment, beyond our imagination. Now we know that more effective means of destruction are at hand and that greater means will be evolved. There are no limits to these deadly powers.

The scientists themselves are frightened by their offspring. The more they know, the more frightened they are. Alexis Carrel, one of the most brilliant minds of our age, left a posthumous book, "Reflections on Life," in which he has this to say:

"Man has only grasped one aspect of reality. He has plucked the forbidden fruit from the tree of knowledge before it was ripe. It gave us the knowledge of all things save ourselves."

Then he says:

"One essential law for the development of living beings is that of effort. Muscles, vital organs, intelligence, and will can only be strengthened by work. No error can be more fatal than that of suppressing the voluntary effort of mind and muscle and the involuntary one of the adaptive systems. Our ancestral laws of conduct were the expression of a profound intuition of human nature. Christian morality also imposes rules which are none other than those intended by life itself. Life has replied to our disobedience to its laws by estranging itself from us; a reply at once silent and brutal. Only the most clear-sighted have been aware of the danger . . ."

The degeneration of the race is universal because lack of self-discipline is universal. The enforced discipline of the totalitarian state or the enslavements exercised by the Communists are not substitutes for self-discipline. Strong nations base themselves not on the exercise of power over each individual but depend upon the strength that comes from the morality of its citizens living within the social disciplines of the family.

Patriotism is self-respect. When self-respect degenerates, the family loses its primary purpose, which is self-discipline within an intimate group; after that, love of country is dissipated into the elevation of private whim above the common good.

An ugly example of this is the shamelessness of those who spy upon their own country in the interest of its foes. Thousands of young men and women, some Marxists, some not, some only willful people, have joined in a conspiracy against what normal human beings always love. The Rosenbergs went to their deaths without explaining why they did so much harm to their country.

The Rosenbergs are only two of a horde of spies and saboteurs who have invaded almost all phases of American life. Harry Truman's rejection of Senator Jenner's statement that these creatures have invaded every phase of American life is not astonishing. Harry Truman called the accusation of Alger Hiss a "red herring." He tolerated Harry Dexter White. He protected Owen Lattimore.

Does this mean that Harry Truman preferred Communists and spies? It does not. Harry Truman's reaction is normal among Americans who fear reality and run from it. Americans live in the memory of a good world when a man's word was his bond and when a handshake on a deal made it final. It was a moral world in which men were ashamed of wrongdoing because they were sure about right and wrong.

Realistically, that world is no longer ours. Just as the existence of the atom and hydrogen bombs must affect our thinking on many phases of life, so the impact of Marxism affects our morals. Just as in economics, Gresham's Law prevails that bad money drives out good money, so in morals, the acceptance of wickedness as a possible way of life drives the Ten Commandments, the revealed law of God, from our way of life.

Were our people ready to accept reality, they would solve many of their problems. Their nature would quickly toughen because they accepted reality. It is their unwillingness to believe the truth, to recognize their own errors, their errors of education, of the upbringing of their children, of their obligations as citizens, that aids the degenerative characteristics of our era.

Carrel grasped the essential flaw of the age in which he lived and died.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Men's virtues have been extolled, men's vices condemned in every language, since time began.

But, I fully agree with William D. Hassett who recently remarked in a magazine article about Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman, to both of whom he was a "kind of off-the-record" secretary, that a man's vices can be his "virtues carried to excess."

He referred particularly to Truman's "loyalty to men long after they had outlived their usefulness."

Virtue carried to excess can easily become a vice. We see it every day in our own lives. The perfectionists are all around us.

To them every "I" must have its dot. Every button must be on every shirt. Every little stain on their dress makes their whole evening miserable. The slightest mistake made by their secretary or a clerk is a catastrophe.

You find these perfectionists in every walk of life. There are the parents who are so meticulous in the upbringing of their children that they leave no room for self-reliance and stifle every sign of individuality in them.

There are the super-savers who are so afraid of a rainy day that they never let the sun into their lives and live in constant fear of a penurious old age.

There are the do-gooders who abhor sin to such an extent that nothing that is pleasant can be good; that they know no compassion for the sinner, give no help to those who have fallen by the wayside.

On the other hand, there are those who get such a tremendous kick out of life that they simply cannot be bothered with the troubles of their fellow men. Life has been so good to them that they cannot understand that others may suffer and be in trouble.

Too much of anything isn't any good for anybody. Too much drink, too much food, too much exercise, too much money, too much living—all these are harmful.

CUTIES

ful and eventually extract their toll.

Perfectionists have their hangovers as well as drunkards, gourmands, chain-smokers and any other kind of sybarite.

There is no such thing as perfection in life. If man were created to be perfect, there would be no such thing as the original sin.

If there were no such thing as the original sin there would be no need for repentance or salvation.

By the way, in Oklahoma the Medical Research Foundation is now experimenting with another wonder drug, which will "take the raw edge off living in this atomic age."

It is called Pregnenolone Methylether, a liquid extracted from Mexican wild yams, and so far, it has "brought relief to persons suffering from tensions, chronic worries, persistent irritabilities and depressions."

The new drug is not yet on the market. But when it is, it is certainly ought to be taken at least three times a day, before or after meals, as an antidote to "virtue carried to excess."

Thousands Of Persons Line Streets To View Hallowe'en Parade

Marchers Vie For $400 In Prize Money

By Peter Otway

Hallowe'en paraders moved through the Stroudsburg last night past thousands of laughing, hooting, applauding spectators.

Bandsters tooted and drummers tapped, horses shied, youngsters tripped over curbstones and motorists crawled slowly past as the parade formed a sort of revolving nebula in the vicinity of East Stroudsburg High School.

A few officials, hard-working, bending out contest parade numbers, hurried and worried the mob into shape as the 7 p.m. deadline neared.

By 7:15 the parade moved out with the usual official car and occupants heading things up, and blocks of youngsters in outlandish costumes, bands, organizations, floats, decorated trucks and political displays falling into line for the march to Stroudsburg.

The parade moved down Courtland St. under a snapping clear black sky. Weather was mildly cold and there was little wind as the groups wound through the East Stroudsburg business section, putting on their special performances for the benefit of the crowds, then moving on toward the State bridge.

Over in Stroudsburg the sidewalks were jammed with watchers and waiters all the way from Fifth to Eighth Sts.

Along Main St. spectators spilled over curbs and beyond the lines of parked cars. Young men stood on the benches. "Hey, here it comes!" went up a shout from several ways, and the mob surged forward to see. The parade was not even within earshot.

About 8 p.m. martial music sounded along lower Main St., and within minutes the first units were marching up the hill past the theater and onto the level.

Spectators were not only in the streets and sidewalks; they filled nearly every window of the buildings fronting on Main St.

The parade wound past stolid adults, fat, laughing adults, wise-cracking teenagers, and kids, hundreds of kids, seemingly thousands of kids—nearly all of them engaged in a frantic contest to see who could hit the most paraders in the face with kernels of corn.

A Rotary Club sultan lolled grinning in his place as his male "harlem" danced grotesquely and tooted "cobra music" on a clarinet.

A man with political ambitions had his placards carried by dozens of children. Another simply had a car in the parade with a vote-for-me type sign on the side.

Three little girls in white nurses' uniforms were doing a gory job of giving a blood transfusion to a beat-up young patient on a mobile operating table. One nurse held aloft a bottle of something red and a tube ran from it to the boy's arm. They were among the prize-winners.

One of the township bands started to go through its fancy steps before the eight woman judges on a truck in front of Wyckoff's. The drum majorettes reversed and started walking to the rear. One after the other the band members followed.

"Hey—this way kids... you're going the wrong way... that's to East Stroudsburg," yelled a half-dozen leather-junged boys.

Two half-embarrassed giggling young ladies in street clothes hung onto the end of a fire chain. At the other end was a lurching, jumping "gorilla" who ran at the crowd and was obviously having a whale of a time.

One of the acts which brought big laughs was a ridiculous-looking bride couple, the "woman" twirling over her grotesque mate and coyly hugging her bouquet while a clowning pair of photographers took a bridal snapshot with a huge camera and burning flashlight powder.

Between the more elaborate acts came dressed-up youngsters by the hundreds. There was much imagination in evidence. A girl became a walking statue of liberty. A boy was a wild Zulu. Fantastic animals that would have scared the daylights out of Lewis Carroll leered, pranced, cat-called, waved to families watching from the sidelines, and threw corn kernels at the corn-throwing side-liners.

One ordinary open car came by with a family in it. Spectators wondered audibly at "What's that supposed to be?" Probably some luckless motorist on his way from Buffalo to Caldwell, N. J., who got trapped in the parade.

As the parade wound past there

Property, Two Cars Damaged

Two cars which collided on N. Fifth St. at 6:40 p.m. Thursday ran off the west side of the highway onto the property of Milton Garris causing damage to the lawn and trees estimated by police at $50.

Stroudsburg State police said the cars were damaged about $350. They listed the drivers as Harold Bird, 48, 107 Penn St., East Stroudsburg and Earl A. Williams, 28, of Cresco.

The accident on Route 90 north of Stroudsburg occurred when Bird pulled from a parking space onto the road and collided with Williams car, police said. There were no injuries.

seemed to be many more than six bands. Hundreds of young girls—it looked like hundreds—looked like hundreds of high-stepped zestfully. They came in assorted sizes. Twirlers included knee-high kindergarten and high-grade collegiates.

A couple of trucks from an ice company crawled along with the parade, the sides decorated with nothing but the company name. The entries of a recent company were a bit more gay: four great, lumbering cement-mixers were delicately woven with colored paper ribbons.

Girl Scouts passed on their floats, showing the girls in uniform, sitting at the entrance to a tent, building a campfire. There were floats by a few industries, showing some work and initiative, a spectacular float by the Pocono Camera Club, and some four entries by fraternal clubs.

One of the boys who passed likely got his costume idea from his parents: an engaging red-head with an impish grin, he was costumed as half angel and half devil.

It took exactly a half hour for the entire parade to pass the corner of Seventh and Main Sts.

When the parade broke up at 8:30 entrants returned to Seventh St. in front of The Daily Record offices to hear the numbers of the winners announced.

Biggest prizes went to the six bands entered: winning $25 each were bands from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, Stroudsburg High School, East Stroudsburg High School, Smithfield and Middle Smithfield Schools, and the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

Prizes of $5 each went to Eileen and Joyce Sturdevant as most original adults, for their old-fashioned dresses; to Paul Rustine and Chester Everett, roller skating scarecrows; Gerald P. Anderson as sultan of one of the floats; James Somers as sultan on another.

A few of the $5 prizes were un-

Water Firm To Excavate For Well

Mount Pocono — Excavation for another well and installation of a pump is contemplated by Fairview Water Co. to increase water service to customers here, A. J. Zabriske, president, said last night.

Zabriske told The Daily Record "We have two reservoirs there and to give the people proper service another well and a pump has to be placed at the upper reservoir."

He continued, "The principal trouble is on the high point and on weekends when all the people are there the present facilities do not give the pressure where people on high points can get water."

"Last year we had complaints about that on Saturday mornings. That's when the PUC told us to put the advertisement in the newspaper to stop sprinkling."

Mount Pocono — In a letter to Harry Taylor, secretary of the borough, Zabriske took exception to two statements attributed to him in a news story concerning Fairview Water Company's application to the PUC for increased water rates.

Zabriske was reported as saying, there have been no complaints of water shortage within the past few years.

The president told Taylor this is incorrect and called special attention to the last complaint to the PUC (one filed by Borough Council) and subsequent PUC instructions to advertise that no water should be used weekends for sprinkling.

He also noted another statement which read "bondholders of the company have received no interest remuneration in the past five years."

Zabriske's letter continued "What I said was that bondholders' interest is over five years in arrears. Interest has been paid in the past five years but there is still over five years interest due."

The application dated Monday was forwarded the Public Utility Commission in Harrisburg and rate increases, if approved, are scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1.

Dr. L. T. Powers, chief burgess here, indicated protests of residents would be filed with council when they meet Monday night.

I was production manager for the Star Ribbon Co. from 1922 to 1928, at which time business was suspended due to the death of one of the owners. From 1928 to 1934, I was a ribbon weaver for the Monroe Ribbon Mills and in 1934 was advanced to production foreman by the late James H. Arbogast and Hon. Chester H. Rhodes, serving in that capacity until 1949.

My affiliations are with the following organizations: B. P. O. Elks, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Stroudsburg Masonic Lodge, Lehigh Consistory, Irem Temple, Shrine Club, C. L. U. Club, Italian-American Club, Loyal Order of Moose and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Fine Urges New State Constitution

Harrisburg, Pa. — Gov. John S. Fine said last night that Pennsylvania needs a new constitution to permit the state government to "solve with efficiency the complex educational and social requirements of modern day Pennsylvania."

The governor urged voters in a radio address to approve at next week's election setting up of a constitutional convention to re-write the commonwealth's basic law.

"The time has come, not to repair, but to rebuild the structure," Fine said, adding:

"I appeal to the people of the state to call for a constitutional convention to revise our charter which now palsies many administrative functions."

The governor said the state needs a new constitution to replace the 79-year-old document because "Under the present eroding fundamental law of the commonwealth the exercise of home rule for our cities and municipalities is virtually frustrated."

"The comprehensive financial policy of the state, as now constituted needs drastic overhauling to meet properly and equitably the mounting demands of requisite public service which alone can be performed by a state government for the community at large."

Recalling that both political parties of the state are pledged by their 1950 platforms to constitutional revision, Fine reminded:

"The people must speak unmistakably, and soon, in what has been a listless campaign if such a convention is to be held."

"Constitutional revision requires the prompt dynamic support of every civic group, of every progressive political leader to achieve this bipartisan pledge," he said.

Radioactive Cobalt Turn On Lights

Painesville, Ohio, Pa. — Radioactive cobalt was hooked up last night to turn on Painesville's new street lights in an eye and ear demonstration of how the atomic material can be used safely.

Residents of this community of 15,000 were invited to see the material, used to treat deep-set cancer, perform in another way.

The cobalt was placed near a Geiger counter wired to a street light starting switch. The switch was set to turn on the lights when the radioactivity reached 1,000 pulses a minute.

A public address system was set up to amplify the counter's ticking pulses as they registered on a large dial.

The General Electric Co. arranged the demonstration with cobalt obtained from Oak Ridge, Tenn.

The vapor-mercury lights manufactured by GE will be turned on by standard methods for regular use.

Nine-Month-Old Boy Takes Up Whistling For Pastime

Miami, Fla. (AP) — This is the case of the whistling baby, 9-month-old Billy Gillespie.

His dad is a traffic policeman. Traffic cops, you might say, whistle for a living.

Billy whistles too. Constantly.

Mrs. William C. Gillespie said she used to whistle at the baby to make him eat, or attract his attention.

One day he whistled back.

"He just pucker up and blew," she said. "Nothing came out at first, so I whistled at him again."

"He tried it a second time and he whistled. He looked so surprised it was really funny."

Billy's been whistling ever since. Like babies everywhere, he doesn't perform unless he happens to feel like it.

"He doesn't seem to do it to show off," Mrs. Gillespie said. "He just sort of whistles, you know, like an adult that's preoccupied with his work or something."

Reports 'Shock' Dorothy McGuire

New York, (AP) — Dorothy McGuire said last night she was "shocked and disturbed" at reports her husband, Sgt. John Brown, was flying back from Korea to break up her romance with Julius La Rosa.

In a terse statement distributed by CBS, her first since La Rosa reported they hoped to be married, she said she could not comment further "until I have heard from or talked to Johnny."

Miss McGuire had been living apart from Sgt. Brown, recently assigned to Korea, for the past several months.

La Rosa had said the separation was amicable and he and Miss McGuire hoped to marry when they solved their legal and religious difficulties. He is Roman Catholic and she is not.

Ike Urges Support Of Churches

Washington (AP) — Americans were urged by President Eisenhower last night to support church endeavors actively and attend church faithfully.

The statement was recorded by the President for a radio and television program of the Committee on Religion in American Life.

The text of the Eisenhower statement:

"Each year the Committee on Religion in American Life reminds us of the importance of faithful church attendance. It urges full support of religious institutions to the end that we may add strength and meaning to the religious virtues—charity, mercy, brotherly love, and faith in Almighty God.

"These spiritual concepts are the inspiration of the American way."

"It was once said, 'America is great because America is good—and if America ever ceases to be good, America will cease to be great.'"

With faith, your children's lives will have a center—around which the good and the troublesome things that happen will form with purpose.

Calculated Risk?

Every time you break a safety rule for pedestrians you are taking a risk of serious injury or death—a risk that is calculated right down to the last decimal point by traffic accident statisticians.

Nearly a third of the people killed last year in highway accidents in Pennsylvania were pedestrians—531 of them. Another 9,596 pedestrians were injured.

Some of the risks break down this way:

124 pedestrians were killed crossing between intersections.

1 out of every 5 pedestrians killed was crossing a rural road when death struck.

30% of the pedestrians killed or injured came from behind parked cars.

Why take any such risks? Stay alive . . . stay free from crippling accidents. Obey the safety rules for pedestrians.

This message in the interest of highway safety is one of a series prepared and disseminated by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue.

Foresighted Trio Founded Free Schools

Impressive monuments to an essential freedom stand guard against the tyranny of ignorance all over the State of Pennsylvania today. Although these monuments honor the spirit of three men, now long dead, they are living monuments to a trio who contributed freely of energy, time and talent so that every Pennsylvanian might receive a liberal and gratuitous education.

The monuments are the free public schools of Pennsylvania. In these public schools, a hundred years hence, the children of the Commonwealth will learn of the tragedies that convulsed the world of their forebears, and perhaps they will appreciate more deeply the wisdom and foresight of Timothy Pickering, Samuel Breck and Thaddeus Stevens, whose efforts had assured their birthright of free education.

This, briefly, is the story of how the birthright came to be won, and of the trio who did the fighting, told by the Department of Commerce.

Timothy Pickering was the first to join battle. During the Constitutional Convention of Pennsylvania in 1790, delegates sat in draughty committee rooms in Philadelphia and tempered the bitter cold of January with heated arguments over Constitutional provisions. At that point, Pickering brought on a storm of protest with his demand of the State government that they should assume responsibility for educating the children of its citizens.

His demand was rejected and his motion failed—but only for the being. Other delegates, undaunted by the popular aversion to public education, pressed the issue and succeeded in writing into the Constitution an unsatisfactory but definite commitment in this direction.

Although the Convention of 1776 had approved a vague and impractical plan for public schooling, until now, little had been done about it. Even now, the hopes of the sponsors were submerged in the hostile reaction that followed publication of the Constitution. On a whole, it seemed the people did not want free schools.

Education, in early Pennsylvania, had been limited almost exclusively to those who could afford to pay for it, either from private tutors or from the few established "Classical Schools" or "Academies." True, the various religious groups had organized their own parochial school and in the metropolitan areas, at least, were educating many of their children. But on the whole the picture was pretty dark. Not until 1824 did the State get around to providing a workable public school plan, but even this was repealed three years later. Prior to this, in 1802, 1804, and 1809, several "Pauper Education Acts" had been passed—and universally scorned.

Under these acts, assessors were authorized to record the names of children between the ages of five and twelve years whose parents were too poor to pay for their schooling. These children would then be classified as "paupers" and admitted to free schooling. It is not difficult to realize why these acts failed to solve the problem. In 1833, Samuel Breck, of Philadelphia, arrived in Harrisburg to plead the cause of public education in the State Assembly. After being appointed to form a committee of investigation, he set to work immediately.

On March 15, 1834, Breck's "Education Bill" passed the Senate by a surprising majority and was signed by the Governor on April 1 of that year.

Immediately, another and more violent storm broke over the heads of the legislators. But this time it was a different cry. Now the wealthy and the already well educated seemed to think that they should retain their exclusiveness. Severe political crises followed. It seemed inevitable that the act must be repealed. And, in the December session, this was approaching actuality.

One of the greatest speeches in Pennsylvania's history intervened. One of the nation's strangest and most powerful statesmen, who had taken no part in the fight, now stepped in and swung the balance. Thaddeus Stevens, the same man who would, many years later, demand the emancipation of Negro slaves, brought the silence of a tomb into the Assembly chamber of Pennsylvania and with a masterful display of rhetoric, shamed the dissenters into acceptance of their duties.

"The blessing of education shall be conferred on every son of Pennsylvania," concluded the man with the voice of thunder. And it was. The endangered act was saved, and the long fight was won.

From this point on, the story of education in Pennsylvania is a story of proud and noble achievement. Today hundreds of thousands of young Pennsylvanians attend 9,949 public schools and are taught by 59,447 teachers.

Unsurpassed in all the nation, the free public schools of the Commonwealth now stand as an eternal memorial to democracy-in-action.

Eunice Milton pretties up an angel to be "co-starred" in one of her Winter Wonderland windows.

It's Christmas All Year Long For Yule Window Display Creator, Eunice Milton

By Lucia Perrigo
Central Press Correspondent
Chicago, Ill. — Christmas comes but once a year—that's what you think! As far as Eunice Milton is concerned, every day is Christmas; there is no spring, summer or autumn.

This unique young lady is surrounded by Santa Claus, reindeer, sleds and angels every work day of the year and if you think that's a lop-sided life, guess again. Miss Milton, looking like a beaming but somewhat grubby urchin in a paint-splattered T shirt and mica sparkling denim apron, was puffing out the tulle skirt of an angel when we caught up with her.

Stepping into her snow scene we hailed: "And a Merry Christmas to you, too!" It was hard to reconcile the sight of this young, grinning girl, with the reputation of one of the really great creative artists turning out Christmas displays that kept New York's Fifth Avenue holiday crowds pressed like paste to Lord and Taylor's windows this past Yule until the demand to see her doll fantasies forced store executives to decree that the window lights would remain on two hours later than usual.

As top designer for Silvestri Art Manufacturing company in Chicago, Eunice Milton makes Christmas merrier for shoppers all over the country where stores like Harzfelds in Dallas, Tex., Neiman Marcus in Dallas, Tex., Kaufman's in Pittsburgh pay from $7,000 to $12,000 per window for her works of Winter Wonderland.

"Come see my cherubs," she called, showing off her latest brain children like the proudest parent.

Moving about, playing make-believe music, her angelic orchestra, riding angel hair clouds, demonstrated their "technique" as a button set them in motion. Enthralled by their airy enchantment, you watched their creator smile with supreme satisfaction, the satisfaction of one who could carry her childhood joy and imagination over into adulthood—and make it pay off. It was like being paid to lick the spoon after the fudge was poured.

An executive with no immediate assistant because she likes to "find out how things work myself," Eunice Milton admits her inspiration comes from all directions her childhood toys, from old German Christmas cards and lithographs of angels, from antique dolls and the beguiling porcelain dolls of the 1890s. It was these last that prompted her to create the traffic-paralyzing windows of last season.

These little creatures who inhabited a Holiday house, baked Christmas cookies, sewed Christmas stockings, wrapped packages, compelled her even to make their clothes and go to New York to supervise their installation in the big city.

"They were psychologically so well timed," Eunice explains. "For the life we lead today, they were a wonderful escape back to that day of gentleness when girls were little ladies and boys were little gentlemen."

Her angels don't just stand there. They do something, like bake an angel food cake! It is her preoccupation with the mechanics of her make-believe figures that distinguishes this damsel. It started way back in art school. Only child of a Chicago street car supervisor, she trundled off to the Art Institute where she insists "I looked like an art student, but I wasn't arty!"

She preferred toy design to all her courses "and since this is not considered art I found myself in Industrial Design," she explains. "I became the girl with the T-square and the triangle. I loved it. Besides the boys outnumbered the girls."

She always worked in three dimensions and when she was graduated into the war days of 1940 the only job she could find was for a stationary house, showing customers how to make party favors.

Nut cups weren't her idea of great art; so she hid herself to New York to spend a year studying papier mache figure work. Finally big Carson, Pirie, Scott and company in Chicago hired her for its display department and the day she got her first State street window display was the Millennium as far as she was concerned.

Poetically enough, it was a Christmas window—but she spent all Thanksgiving Day installing it! She is modest enough to insist she is no genius, just a "plodder," candid enough to confess that her father helped her paste hairs on plaster Easter Bunnies for three days to land her first display job; unpretentious enough to love a country life so much that she drives more than 100 miles a day to work in Chicago and return to her Algonquin home.

Her only complaint? Come Christmas she is too exhausted to decorate her own home and settles for a single tree!

bright were recent guests at the wedding anniversary dinner for the Rev. and Mrs. John Boepple of Newark, N. J. which was held at Allentown.

Dairy Products Gain Fame For Pennsylvania

Recognized as one of the nation's greatest dairy states, Pennsylvania ranks fourth in the United States in production.

Last year dairy products reached an all-time record of $266 million and the milk production, representing about one-third of all farm income, is the largest single phase of Pennsylvania agriculture.

Pennsylvania annually leads other states in production of ice cream. Latest figure shows over 70 million gallons were produced here.

In addition millions of pounds of Pennsylvania milk are processed each year into cream, butter, ice cream mix, cheese and condensed milk. New York is the only state that heads Pennsylvania in the amount of milk handled and consumed each year.

This week milk consumers are paying tribute to the Pennsylvania farmers who work 12 to 14 hours daily and do their milking seven days a week to keep a constant flow to the doorsteps.

It also is the time to realize that dairy farmers are independent small businessmen who must wage an incessant fight against the loss through destructive diseases of cattle, sorely pressed by the rising costs of production and an acute shortage of competent labor.

HEADING FOR THE TOP

TAKING PARLOR GAMES out into the open, motorcycle enthusiasts in Gilford, N. H., recently held a roundup in which they played versions of walk the plank, break the balloon and carry water without spilling it while riding around a circular course. Highlight of the roundup was a hill climb in which motorcycle riders raced up an incline of nearly 65 degrees in spots. The hill climb was on the same spot that, in winter, is the scene of the famous Torger Tokle memorial ski jump at Belknap. And, perhaps appropriately enough, all the proceeds from this motorcycle roundup went to a hospital fund.

Small Game Hunters Poised For Season Opening Today

Fair Weather Forecast For First Day

Harrisburg (AP)—Practically perfect weather and favorable forest conditions were in sight last night for opening of Pennsylvania's small game season today for an estimated 800,000 licensed hunters.

"The weather is perfect, the stock of game is exceptionally high and everything points to a banner opening day," said Dr. Logan J. Bennett, executive director of the State Game Commission.

The commission estimated hunters have spent more than 12 million dollars on guns, shells and other equipment for this year's hunting season.

The season will open at 9 a. m. today and will continue through Nov. 20, Sunday excluded. Hunting hours each day after the opening will be from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Dr. Bennett anticipated a record first-day in the number of hunters to take to the fields and the number of game killed.

Rainfalls during the last few days have penetrated the forests and made them reasonably safe from fire-dangers.

"However," Bennett warned, "that does not mean that the hunters should not take every possible precaution against fires."

Somewhat warmer weather was predicted for most of the state by the U. S. Weather Bureau. Rather cool weather was forecast for the northern counties. No rain was reported in sight.

"I appeal to every hunter to play it safe," Bennett said. "This is a sport and it is designed to impart enjoyment so let's not mar its entertainment value with accidents."

"If a man takes just a little bit of care and uses common sense in handling his gun, we should not have to spoil the season with accidents," he said.

The game which can be lawfully killed and the limit for each are:

Rabbits, four a day and eight a season.

Ringneck pheasants, two a day and eight a season.

Wild turkeys, one a season.

Squirrels, gray and black, and fox, five a day and 20 a season total.

Red squirrels, unlimited kill.

Baccons, groundhogs and black-birds, unlimited kill.

Wild turkeys can not legally be shot in Adams, Allegheny, Beaver, Bucks, Chester, Cumberland, Delaware, Greene, Lancaster, Montgomery, Perry, Philadelphia, Washington and York counties and those parts of Berks, Dauphin, Lebanon, Lehigh and Northampton counties south of U. S. Highway 22.

Also that part of Franklin County south and east of U. S. Highway 11.

The ban was placed on turkey hunting in these areas to allow the fowl to multiply. Diminishing numbers of turkey have been reported in these areas during the last few years.

The game commission asked all hunters who kill rabbits, which have metal tags attached to their ears to send the tag to the game warden of the county marked on the tag.

The metal tags were put on the rabbits by game wardens who trapped them in restricted areas during the year and then set them free in the woods.

The object of tagging the animals is to determine their traveling habits through checks made with the hunters.

Hunters are required to wear their licenses on their backs. Anyone caught hunting without a license is subject to a $20 fine and a possible revocation of hunting rights.

Conservation Farm Program Provides Wildlife Habitat

By A. Norman Dietrick
(SCS Technician)

A complete conservation farm plan includes provisions for improving the wildlife habitat as well as conserving soil and water. With the opening of the small game hunting season many sportsmen and farmers will wonder why the game is not more abundant.

Part of the answer lies in the fact that the intensive type farming in recent years, with large modern machinery, has eliminated many of the former food and shelter areas on the farm. The elimination of fence rows alone gave the beneficial birds and small game a heavy setback.

Borders between fields, or between woods and fields, have long been recognized as ideal hunting areas.

The adoption of such conservation measures as contour strip cropping, diversions, contour hedges, living fences of multiflora rose, and the planting of evergreens has increased the "border effect."

Farms where these practices have been installed can usually boast an increase in the wildlife population.

One of the most beneficial and practical operations in the development of a shrubby border between woods and cropland, by cutting the larger trees and leaving the natural shrubs and vines.

The edge of the woods is cut back about 24 feet. This prevents shading and competition with the crop, but permits all manner of fruit bearing shrubs and vines to flourish.

Borders of this nature have been developed on the A. W. Martin farm, the E. H. Staples farm, and the Stanley Pysler farm in the West End of the county. The work was done by the Pennsylvania Game Commission through the farm game program. These farmers are also cooperators with the Monroe County Soil Conservation District.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, happy Hallowe'en to you, too. The only trouble is I needed my broomstick to negotiate the trip between the towns which sort of turned into nightmare of fendish drivers ahead and behind, little goblins dashing out from between parked cars, and lost souls looking for non-existent parking spaces.

I had the disposition of a witch by the time I got over town, and I'm sure my hair had turned grey from near misses. However, I had pity to spare for some of the paraders. The little drum majorettes still lifting their weary little legs high—the boy in the high-heeled shoes limping along the last mile—the little monkey under the palm tree, weary of scratching himself.

Spare a thought for the tuba players, too, whose spreading horns were a wonderful target for the handful of corn all along the route. The ones at the end were lucky because by that time the only corn was the kernels salvaged from the street.

Which was another thing that kept parents of small children on the jump, crawling out to retrieve them from the path of cement mixers, horses, and oncoming bands.

But really, everybody was having a wonderful time—which fortunately they won't have to go through again, till next year.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:15 a.m.

High Russian Officers Visited POW Camp Where Reds Used 'Brutal' Pressures To Make Americans 'Confess'

Washington (AP)—A former war prisoner reports that many high-ranking Russians visited a North Korean camp where the Reds were trying to wrest "confessions" and information from captured Americans by starvation and other maltreatment.

The Russians made no attempt to conceal their nationality, he said, apparently thinking that none of the American prisoners would ever get back home.

(The story is told by Capt. William M. Preston of Batavia, N. Y., in a four-hour film recording by 15 former prisoners exhibited yesterday to newsmen, motion picture and television representatives.)

The Pentagon film, part of which was shown early this month to the United Nations Assembly by the U. S. representative, Henry Cabot Lodge, represents another round in the Americans' psychological battle with the Communist camp to refute "confessions" wrung from prisoners and spread worldwide by Red propaganda.

The U. S. Assembly saw a film recording of the statements of 10 of the men—8 airmen and 2 Marines. But in the Pentagon showing the recordings of five other airmen were shown as well.

An official interrogator announced, concerning the latter, that "in spite of pressure brought to bear, these men, like many, many others, refused to succumb to the pressure."

Capt. Preston presaged his statement with the comment that the treatment he received was "brutal," that the enemy sought to wear him and the others down physically and mentally to the point where they would make statements and give information wanted by their captors.

Then he told about an interrogation camp called "Pak's Palace," named after the North Korean major who ran the place—"the most barbaric, evil, vicious man I have ever met in my life."

Of Pak, Preston said: "At interrogations he would interrogate us for long hours at a time, sometimes as many as 15 or 20 hours a day. And he always had a club or gun or slam you in the face with his fist whenever he felt you weren't telling the truth. . . . His guards were terribly brutal, the same as he was."

About Pak's Palace, Preston said:

Many high-ranking officers visited Pak's while we were there to look at the American prisoners, to laugh, to spit at us, throw rocks at us. They thought it was funny to see an American up there as a prisoner.

"There were many Russians visited Pak while we were there. There were many high-ranking civilians, both Chinese and Russian and Koreans, visited Pak's."

"We talked to those people. They let us know who they were. They weren't trying to hide their identity because I think they felt that none of the U. N. prisoners that were there would ever get back to our own country."

The four other airmen in the group told stories much like Preston's, of brutal treatment, cold, starvation and slavish labor with constant questioning and lectures.

The others with Preston were Lt. John Street, South Orange, N. J.; M. Sgt. George Morar, Rockville, Md.; Capt. Zach Deana, Douglas, Kans.; and Capt. William C. McTaggart, East Brady, Pa.

Transcripts of the 10 other men previously shown to the U. N. Assembly were made public at the time.

In four of those recordings, the Pentagon accompanied the film record of denials by airmen of their "confessions" with copies of propaganda films made by the Communists. These Red films were taken at the time the forced "confessions" were made before a so-called investigating committee in North Korea at which Communist reporters were present.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Today's the day both East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High schools will see more passes than they have all through the present football campaign. East Stroudsburg will be called upon to combat a regular aerial circus when the Cavaliers tangle with Coplay. Stroudsburg on the other hand will oppose Catasauqua, a team that has gone nowhere thus far this season, but one that has a fine defense and an ace passer. Both local teams must be alert today, especially during the early portion of the ball game. Passing teams, regardless of their strength, can score early and quick.

I for one hope that neither East Stroudsburg nor Stroudsburg take today's foes lightly, although the local grid contingents should come up with victories. In last week's game with Slatington's powerful offensive weapon, is known as "Magnificent Maurice" around the Lehigh Valley League. Jack Kist, Dick Forster, Del Davis and Mike Jacobella, the entire East Stroudsburg High school football coaching staff, have received sideline passes for the Army-North Carolina State football game at West Point next Saturday.

Wilson Borough played East Stroudsburg last week without Dave Perruso, defensive lineman. Dick Shents and Steve Mangino, two backs, and Carl Martinelli, an end, so this column was informed yesterday by a loyal Wilson rooster, Harry Obitz, head golf pro at Shawnee Inn, donated a lot of golf equipment to the golf club at Stroudsburg High school before he departed for Red Cloud, Neb. The donation included two dozen clubs, 75 "putt" balls and a lot of tees. The club numbers 89 members at the present time. A combination cold and sinus condition is what put Tom "Tank" Berger, Stroudsburg lineman, out of action for three days last week. Stroudsburg High begins basketball practice Monday.

Leon Marable may have been declared ineligible for football at Stroudsburg High last week, but the sophomore halfback never forgot the sport. Although he was unable to practice with the team, Leon kept himself in condition by doing road work around the outside of Gordon Giffels field and in general doing all he could for the team, despite the fact that he was unable to play because of scholastic difficulties. Jack Finelli, Bangor halfback, gained a total of 130 yards in seven tries against Coplay last Friday night, for an average of 18.5 yards per carry. He also went 23 yards on a pass play.

Bangor as a team returned intercepted passes for 249 yards against Coplay in the same game. The Pocono Mountains League will have the honor of running the longest baseball season this year, as Kunkletown and Barrett will play the post-season playoffs on Sunday. At Barrett, The Upper Lehigh Valley League completed its campaign last Sunday, with Fairland Farms winning the championship from Danielsville, 9-0. Pocono Mountains League fans will be watching the action of Jim Rader, Mauch Chunk, in the minor leagues next season. Jim played for Lake Harmony during the campaign just ending and is now the property of the New York Yankees.

Dominic "Zeggy" DeFranco, one of the key backs on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College grid machine, reports for Army service on Tuesday, November 10. It was learned yesterday, DeFranco is a former Bangor High grid star and also played at the University of Cincinnati before coming to ESSTC. Don Toth, Pen Argyl, has reportedly decided not to finish out the present grid campaign with the Warriors. Don appeared in every game thus far this season and also played last year, although hampered with injuries.

The East Stroudsburg - Stroudsburg junior varsity football game at Gordon Giffels field on Monday will probably start at least by 3:30 p.m. Mahlon Serfass, faculty athletic manager at Stroudsburg, would like to make the move so as to finish the game before darkness falls on the W. Main St. gridiron. Darkness hampered play in the last period of last Monday's Stroudsburg-Palmerton junior varsity contest. Lehighton's victory over Emmaus the other night was the first for the Indians since they scored a 6-0 win over Stroudsburg on Thanksgiving Day, 1948. Lehighton had gone 31 straight league games without a victory.

Al Stull, a student at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is the number one Wilson Borough fan in this area at the present time. Stull will long be remembered in East Stroudsburg for his basketball and baseball ability while a student at Wilson. Last night's football game between Bangor and Nazareth was the last of the season at Memorial Park. Stroudsburg will be interested in next Saturday's tussle between Bangor and Northampton, on the latter's home field, and many people from this locality will undoubtedly be present to watch the two strong teams in battle. The Mountaineers tangle with Northampton in the final Lehigh Valley League tilt of the season.

Nazareth Scores In Second Period To Blank Bangor

Screen Pass Play Decides Contest, 6-0

Bangor—Nazareth marched 47 yards to the game's only touchdown last night as the Blue Eagles ran up to their fourth straight Lehigh-Northampton League victory with a 6-0 verdict over Bangor High here at Memorial Stadium, as a standing room only crowd witnessed the two arch rivals in action.

Nazareth struck through the air with its favorite play, the screen pass, to break the scoreless deadlock midway in the second period.

Dick Wertheimer intercepted a Dale LaBar pass on the Bangor 47-yard stripe to launch the drive. One pass and three running plays later the Blue Eagles had a first down on the Bangor 16.

Ray Douglas saw his first pass of the new series fall incomplete, but he faded deep on second down and tossed to Dick Metz behind the line of scrimmage. Metz set out for the double chalk mark behind a solid wall of interference.

Despite the interference, Metz was forced to show a dazzling bit of broken field running, as he was hit no less than four times on his short journey to the goal. Andy Leh Jr. attempted the extra point, but the Nazareth coach's son failed to add the seventh marker.

Bangor was hampered by fumbles all night, as the Slaters dropped the ball on no less than seven occasions. The Slaters recovered five of the loose balls, but the two that Nazareth recovered broke up Bangor scoring threats.

The Slaters marched 37 yards to the Nazareth 23 line in the second period, where Jack Stenlake lost 13 yards on a pitch out and Dick Hess fumbled on the next play — Nazareth recovering.

There were no other serious threats until the late period, when the Slaters got a late scoring drive underway. Rodney and Duane Miller led the Slaters on a 30-yard march that splattered to a stop on the Nazareth 30 when Rodney Miller fumbled and Nazareth recovered. The game ended two minutes later.

Bangor's was handicapped in its running game from the early moments of the first period, as Jack Finelli was injured the first time he carried the ball. Finelli was carried from the field.

Reports late last night indicated that Finelli suffered torn ligaments of the left ankle.

Nazareth is undefeated in league play and the Eagles are now tied for first place with Wilson Borough. Last night's loss was Bangor's second league defeat and third of the season. The Slaters have four wins, two against circuit opposition.

West Virginia Risks Perfect Mark

State College, (AP)—Unbeaten, until West Virginia will risk its perfect record here today against twice-beaten Penn State.

Long String
The Mountaineers, last defeated by Penn State at Morgantown last year, now have a string of 11 straight victories—the best in the current major college football season.

Crowe's Keglers Roll
Crowe's Insurance, representing East Stroudsburg, will roll against Central Bowling Academy in Bethlehem today, in a Delaware Valley League match. Action begins at 8 p.m.

Gainsford Likes 'Bang Bang'

Boston, (AP)—George Gainsford, who managed former welterweight and middleweight champion "Sugar Ray" Robinson, is confident he has another prospect in Danny "Bang Bang" Womber of Chicago, who meets Boston welterweight Wilbur Wilson in a nationally televised 10-round boxing bout tonight at the Arena.

The bout, scheduled for 9 p. m. (EST), will be telecast by ABC with New England blacked out.

Eastburg Squad Invades Coplay Today

East Stroudsburg High school will attempt to land its sixth victory in eight football outings today, when the injury-riddled Cavaliers tangle with Coplay High, on the latter's home field. The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 2 p.m.

Copay Jack Kist will be forced to send a patched up starting lineup into today's encounter, due to injuries that have hampered the club in recent games.

Nick Patella and Bob "Red" Kupiszewski, guard and fullback respectively, won't be in uniform for today's contest because of face and head injuries. Harold White will also miss the Coplay contest because of a damaged right knee that is slow in responding to treatment.

There are several other Cavaliers who aren't in top flight physical condition for today's battle, but they will open at their familiar positions.

Lineup
Coach Jack Kist announced yesterday that the purple and white clad gridgers would answer the starting whistle with Don Herman and Dick Zukowski at the end positions; John Vervey and Roger "Red" Hartmann, tackles; Mike Palmisano and Bill Dimmick, guards, and Bob "Booster" Miller, center.

Joe Chase will anchor the backfield at quarterback, while Stan Boorstein operates at left halfback; Bernie Fish, right halfback, and Ronnie Newbaker, fullback. Newbaker will be starting his first game of the current campaign.

Gene Plaza, Bill Sommers, Jack Anthony, John Shaffer, Jim Kinder, Bill Loder, Don Summa and others are expected to see action before the game is history.

East Stroudsburg will be faced with the task of stopping Coplay's high geared passing attack that makes up virtually all of the Coplay offense.

The Cavaliers have won over Hellertown, Slatington, Pen Argyl, Lehighton and Morrisville. The two defeats were at the hands of Bangor and Wilson Borough.

Seranton Tech Scores Upset

Seranton, (AP)—Seranton Tech scored a major upset last night when it handed West Seranton its first loss in 22 games by a 20-6 score in one of the few Pennsylvania high school football games ever televised.

Tie
The West Side invaders hadn't dropped a conference game since November 23, 1950, although they were tied 6-6 last year by Dunmore and dropped a 25-21 non-conference game to Allentown.

Clarion Drops First

Clarion, Pa. (AP)—Clarion State Teachers knocked Clarion State Teachers from the unbeaten ranks 6-0 last night with a touchdown scored in the second quarter on a 45-yard pass from tailback Ed Zielinski to end Bill Slosky.

Stroudsburg Risks Football Record Against Catasauqua

Stroudsburg High School will go in search of victory number 11 of the present campaign today when the once-tied Mountaineers invade the home domain of Catasauqua High. The game is scheduled to begin at 2 p. m.

The Mountaineers have taken the measure of Lehighton, Emmaus, Palmerton, Bangor and Lehigh Valley thus far this season and then battled to a 7-7 deadlock with Whitehall last Saturday night as rain soaked Gordon Giffels Field.

Although Co-Captain Don Garaventi received a bruised shoulder during this week's drill sessions, the Mountaineers are expected to be at full strength for today's encounter.

Coach Jerry Stulgaitis announced last night that he would stick with the same starting offensive lineup that has carried the bulk of the load thus far this season.

Jack Whittle and Don Deibler will replace Marable and Miller respectively on defense, while LeRoy Hochrner, Tom "Tank" Berger and Miles Kirkhoff move into the line.

Catasauqua has lost two games and tied one against circuit opposition, but the Rough Riders feature a strong defense and a sharp passing attack that threw a scare into Slatington during the first half of last week's contest.

Stroudsburg has three more league games remaining this season, including today's. Next week the Mountaineers clash with Slatington at Giffels Field and then wind up circuit action at Northampton on Saturday, November 14.

Today's contest will feature an all-victorious team, Stroudsburg, against a winless squad, Catasauqua.

Pocono Mountains League To End Diamond Season Sunday

Barrett—The curtain will come down on the 1953 Pocono Mountains League baseball season tomorrow, when Barrett and Kunkletown collide in the final game of the championship playoff series. The game is scheduled to begin at 2 p. m., on the Barrett High School field.

Kunkletown evened the series last Sunday by scoring an 8-4 verdict over Barrett, the number two club in the final standings for the regular season.

Barrett had opened the championship playoff series with a 9-8 victory over Kunkletown the previous week, in 11 innings. Kunkletown wound up the season in third place.

Flip of Coin
Tomorrow's game will be played at Barrett, as the number two contingent in the final standings won the toss of a coin last Sunday, following the second game at Kunkletown. The initial contest was held at Barrett.

Kunkletown eliminated Lake Harmony, the regular season title holder, from the playoffs and Barrett sidetracked Reeders. Reeders wound up the season in fourth place.

"Doug or Lamar Price will do the pitching for Barrett in today's final contest, while either Asher Smith or Woodrow "Woody" Costenbader, a pair of veteran right handers, handle the mound chores for Kunkletown.

Both clubs are expected to be at full strength for the payoff battle.

Marquette Triumphs

Boston, (AP)—Bob Guman, a hard-driving fullback replacement, racked 41 yards for a touchdown and given a second try because of a penalty, Don Molenda, converted the point that gave Marquette a 7-6 victory over a hard fighting but luckless Boston University football team last night on soggy Graves Field.

Warriors In Soccer Tussle With Bombers

A revengeful band of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College soccer stars will invade the home field of Ithaca College today to meet the Bombers at 2 p.m.

ESSTC will attempt to bounce back from its first defeat in two years on Wednesday of this week, when a strong West Chester contingent inflicted a 3-2 reversal on the charges of Coach Howard DeNike, in a thrilling contest.

Prior to last Wednesday's outing the Warriors had only a 1-1 deadlock with Trenton Teachers to mar its perfect record.

Results

"The DeNikemen opened the season with a 5-1 verdict over Lafayette, then turned in a 2-0 win over Wilkes College and a 2-0 nod over Panzer College. The ESSTC junior varsity also took the measure of Orange County, N. Y., Community Center, a junior college.

DeNike is expected to stick with the same lineup that has carried the bulk of the load for the Warriors thus far this season.

Bill Schaeffer will be in the goal; Bob Hartman, right fullback; Fred Gahres, left fullback; Lyle Krall, right halfback; Don Baehle, center halfback; Tony Baehle, left halfback; Johnny Blair, outside right; Ed Smith, inside right; Tom Foley, center forward; Henry "Mike" Butler, inside left, and Bob Hight, outside right.

ESSTC closes its season next Saturday against Lock Haven, on the latter's home field.

Giel Leads Gophers On TV

Minneapolis, (AP)—Minnesota's Giel-led Gophers, stoked up by an upset victory over Michigan, face heated but bruised Pittsburgh, today in the nationally televised game of the day.

It will be the first opportunity for a nationwide audience to watch the Gophers' All-America left halfback in a full game performance.

Schedules

Both Pitt and Minnesota have been frayed by invasions of two of the roughest schedules in the country.

Against Giel, Pittsburgh will maneuver a brisk hitting forward wall which has fallen into no disgrace amid the Pittsburgher's unhappiness. Notre Dame hurled its considerable resources at it for three quarters before Pitt's forwards finally wilted, and Oklahoma had to strike through the air to gain a tie.

Leahy To Advise Irish By Telephone

South Bend, (AP)—Convalescing Frank Leahy, like Knute Rockne did against the same team 24 years ago, will give telephonic advice to unbeaten Notre Dame in its self-out intersectional battle with once-defeated Navy today.

But unlike Rockne, Leahy will watch his Fighting Irish on television.

General Motors Disbands 'Panorama' Football Television Plans In Favor Of Full Contests

Detroit, (AP)—General Motors announced last night it was dropping a scheduled November 7 "panorama" football telecast in favor of televising three separate regional games and one local contest.

GM spokesmen said that the NCAA Television Committee had approved the new scheme to replace the ill-received "panorama" type telecast in which viewers saw snapshots of several games.

Instead, GM's "Game of the Week" will present four separate games over NBC stations, with each of three regions and one locality receiving different, complete game coverage.

The Florida-Georgia game starting 2:15 p.m. (EST) will be seen over NBC-TV stations in Maryland, Washington, D. C., Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

The Kansas-Kansas State game at Lawrence, Kans., starting at 1:45 p.m. (CST) will be seen over stations in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Nebraska, Utah, Arizona, California, Oregon and Washington.

The Northwestern-Wisconsin game at Evanston, Ill., starting at 2:15 p.m. (EST) will be seen over all other stations of the NBC-TV network with one exception.

That exception will be the South Carolina-North Carolina game starting at 1:45 p.m. (EST), which will be televised locally at Columbia, S. C., the game site.

GM spokesmen said that limited cable facilities prevent wider coverage of the contest.

The four games are the same four that would have been seen by "panorama" viewers.

GM, sponsors of the weekly NCAA football games, sought permission to drop the panorama broadcast, one of two scheduled for the 13-week series of college football telecasts. The other programs are single contests.

The first panorama program, last Saturday, drew sharp protests from fans.

"We received 2,500 letters," a GM spokesman said, "and they were against the panorama set-up by seven to one."

As a result, GM said it asked for permission to change the November 7 program.

Walter Byers, executive secretary of the NCAA, said last Saturday's program was introduced as an experiment.

Stroudsburg, Eastburg In Cage Loop

The Stroudsburg basketball team accepted into the Blue Mountain League on Wednesday, at a circuit meeting held at Portland's Village Barn, isn't the Veterans of Foreign Wars cage machine as first reported.

Stroudsburg's representative in the Blue Mountain League will be a community sponsored organization.

East Stroudsburg will be represented in the same circuit by Frank's Barbers. This is the same band of Barbers who campaigned in the league last season.

Harold B. Newman, well known Stroudsburg sportsman, has been named vice president of the circuit this year. Herman Hockberg, Nazareth, was elected president.

The next meeting of the league will take place at the Thomas P. Lambert VFW Home, Stroudsburg, on Thursday of next week, at 8 p.m.

In addition to the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg teams, the circuit at the present time consists of Nazareth, Hackettstown, Washington, N. J.; Hackettstown Sportsmen, Westcott Club, Easton, and the Portland Apollos.

There is one vacancy still available in the league. The vacancy and obtaining officials for the coming campaign will be the chief topics of business next Thursday. The season is scheduled to open on Monday, November 30.

ADVANCE—An unidentified Lehigh Valley Junior High school back is shown above sweeping his own right end for a short gain in the fourth and final period of yesterday's football game with East Stroudsburg Junior High. Tom Carmella is the head linesman moving out of the way of the play. East Stroudsburg went on to win, 14-7.

Davis Turns Back Araujo

New York, (AP)—Teddy "Red Top" Davis, always pursuing a fleeing target, won a unanimous decision over George Araujo last night in a dull 10-rounder that drew frequent warnings from Referee Ruby Goldstein and boos from the small crowd at Madison Square Garden. Davis weighed 130½, Araujo 133½.

In round after round, Goldstein talked to the fighters saying, "come on" and "you've got to fight." Once he told them "come on, you're losing out the Garden."

Araujo, a newlywed from Providence, making his first Garden start since he was knocked out by lightweight champ Jimmy Carter in a title bout, kept moving away from Davis all the time.

First Defense
Davis, who had beaten Araujo September 10 in Boston for the New-England lightweight crown, was defending it for the first time. The 30-year-old Hartford, Conn., veteran of 100 previous fights pursued Araujo round after round, catching a sporadic counter fire.

Referee Goldstein took the sixth round away from Araujo for a low blow after warning him in the second.

Both Judges Bert Grand and Joe Eppy scored the fight for Davis 6-4. Referee Goldstein had Davis on top 6-3-1. So did The AP card.

East Stroudsburg Junior High Lands First Grid Win

East Stroudsburg Junior High School scored its first football victory of the season yesterday and in so doing inflicted the initial loss in two years on Lehigh Valley Junior High. The Cavaliers turned in a 14-7 nod over the Indians at Memorial Stadium.
